Mission Celebration - March 8-10

Please place the weekend of March 8-10, 2019, on your calendar as a time for the FBS congregation to celebrate God's hope manifested through the mission ministries of FBS, and also an opportunity to learn where God is calling us in the future to offer hope to the broken world in our community and around the globe. We will enjoy a weekend filled with stories of transformation and healing; messages of hope shared by speakers and workshop leaders who lead ministries and mission that extend the reconciling grace of God through Jesus Christ while meeting people where they are in compassion and love.

We are blessed to have two inspiring and successful keynote speakers leading the weekend. Rev. Peter Pereira, Director of Hope for Today in South Asia will be one of our keynote speakers. Developed in 1997 by Peter and his wife, Esther, and located in Hyderabad, India, Hope for Today brings the light and hope of the Gospel to thousands who do not know Jesus Christ. They offer this hope through Compassion Ministries, a Church Planting Discipleship Movement, and Leadership training.

Dr. Jerry Russell, a retired clergy from Holston, having served most recently at Fairview UMC in Maryville, Tennessee, will be returning as the other keynote for the event. Dr. Russell is the founder of Samaritan Hands, a non-profit ministry designed to help those who find themselves beaten, and by the road, around the world. Areas served by Samaritan's Hands include Guatemala, Costa Rica, Zimbabwe, Paraguay, Haiti, and Latvia. Founded in 1984, Samaritan Hands has shared the love of Christ around the world, while providing opportunities of serving in mission to thousands of men, women, and children.

Joining Rev. Pereira and Dr. Russell are a host of missionaries and ministry leaders who will share stories of lives transformed through the "offered hope" of Jesus Christ through the faithfulness of God and the people who claim Him as Lord and Savior.

Local, regional, and global leaders who will be joining us include:

- ❖ Esther Pereira, wife of Rev. Peter Pereira
- ❖ David Muwaya from Uganda
- ❖ Rev. Dr. Randy Frye with our partnership with "In Mission Together" in Hungary
- ❖ Rev. Mike Sluder, Director of Connectional Ministries for Holston Conference
- ❖ Rev. Harry Howe of Project Crossroads
- ❖ Belize Mission Team
- ❖ Spring Break Disaster Response Team
- ❖ Bristol Raceway Ministries
- ❖ First Broad Street Food Ministry and others.

The event will again include the packaging of meals through Rise Against Hunger, and have activities and opportunities for children and youth as well. A full agenda is found on page 10 of this edition. Registration is open at fbsumc.org for Mission Celebration events. Registration for the Stop Hunger Now Food Packaging Event is available at Rise2019.fbsumc.org. Please call the Missions Office at 423-224-1531 for any questions.

Following the Christian Path... The Red Truck

Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not lean on your own understanding. In all your ways acknowledge Him, and He will make straight your paths.

Prov. 3:5,6

“I think it’s just around this next bend,” my husband said as we looked anxiously to follow our sketchy directions to a patient’s house. In the days before GPS, we called ahead and the family told us to turn “by the red truck.” As we traveled, the directions seemed less and less reliable, especially as we watched several red trucks go past us. “How will we know they are even at home?” I fretted. But Wesley persevered and sure enough, just around the next bend, there was the red truck—with a tree growing out the middle of it!

Sometimes we feel that we are muddling around and wonder if God’s directions in the Bible are steady and sure. God does not change, and his Word is reliable and living. Even in our doubts He continues to provide us with the guide we need to live according to His way and His will. The Lord invites us to persevere, to fill ourselves with His Word, and abide in Him so that we can stay the course as Jesus’ followers. --Joy Eastridge, Parish Nurse

A Path to Healing from Grief

First Broad Street’s Nurture Ministries want to reach out to people in their times of need—whether through prayer, cards, food, or visits, we want to be present to the church family especially during times of loss and grief. We count on each other to communicate needs. Our lay director for Grief Ministries is Chris Taylor. If you are particularly interested in working with others to embody Christ to those going through grief, please contact Chris. Some of the ways we currently reach out include:

- Grief Seminar: Saturday, March 23, 9-3, room 143. Host: Chris Taylor. Cost: $20. Lunch included.
- Card Ministry- led by Jamie Montgomery, the group of 25+ members regularly sends cards to those who have experienced loss.
- Casserole Ministry- led by Lisa Stroud, we try to provide casseroles to people in a variety of times, including grief or other loss.
- Stephen Ministry- Contact Brad or Retta Overturf if you or someone you know might benefit from a Stephen Minister.
- Possible Grief Recovery Support Group- We are thinking of starting a once a month group at lunch time. This group would be for people in all stages of grieving and would involve a sharing time and a devotional time. Let Joy know if you are interested in participating. (jeastridge@fbsumc.org)

Path to Health: Yoga During Lent

On March 6, we will start offering Yoga classes in the Woodyard gym from 6:15-7:15 p.m. Led by BJ Jolley, these classes help improve core strength, balance, and flexibility. Whether you are young or have a few years experience in living, you are invited to participate. $30/ 5 sessions.

The Path Ahead...“Leaving Gracefully”

Presented by our Senior Pastor, Dr. Randy Frye, and our Parish Nurse, Joy Eastridge, this session will focus on helping us plan for the end of life from a medical and spiritual perspective. We will talk about Advance Care Plans and funeral/memorial service plans.

Let us know if you are coming as we will serve a light lunch. Thursday, March 21, 11:30-1:00, Fellowship Hall. Reservation: 224-1502. Cost: $7 (for lunch)

A Word from Our Lead Pastor . . .

I write this article 10 days before I travel to St Louis for the 2019 Called General Conference of the UMC. At this moment, I have no idea what will transpire during that gathering, nor do I know which Plan of “A Way Forward” will be adopted or how United Methodist around the world will respond when the General Conference concludes on February 26. The uncertainty is indeed unsettling for all of us.

But in the midst of those uncertainties, there are some unchangeable truths to which I cling.

† God will still reign upon His throne when General Conference is over.

† God’s Holy Spirit will still be at work within and through God’s people at First Broad Street UMC.

† First Broad Street will still be a place where disciples of Jesus Christ are being made and lives are being transformed.

† We are still going to welcome all into this loving community of faith.

† We will gather for worship on Sunday, March 3, celebrate Holy Communion, and provide a place for all to share in that sacred meal.

† We will still be engaged in ministries that feed the hungry, provide refreshment for the spiritually thirsty, clothe the naked, care for the sick and imprisoned, and embrace the stranger.

† On March 8-10 we will hold a Missions Celebration that reminds us of how God is at work throughout our community and world, and we will package 20,000 meals for Rise Against Hunger.

† God will still do more than anything we can ask or even imagine (in these uncertain times and always).

† God’s grace will be sufficient to guide us in all of the challenges that await us.

† Because God is still God, the best is yet to be.

With those truths in mind, let us continue this journey of life and faith! --Dr. Randy Frye

Parish Nurse's Reflection on Belize Mission Trip

reprinted from allnurses.com

I left for Belize on a Saturday after running around getting ready to be gone for a week, I almost plopped into my airplane seat, grateful for a few minutes of respite when I began to wonder, "What have I gotten myself in to?" Going was my daughter-in-law's idea. As a PA, she had been wanting to go serve as part of a medical mission. My husband, a family doctor, and I readily agreed to join a team that gradually grew to 28 to serve for a week in the inland part of the Central American country of Belize.

Long a part of the British Commonwealth, the country has English as its official language but with a total population of under 350,000 it remains needy with many parts of it underserved medically. Our team went to work in a compound that housed a medical and dental clinic where foreign doctors came 4-5 times a year. We were there to volunteer doing everything from family medicine and dentistry to screenings, hearing assessments with fitting for solar powered hearing aids and giving out of basic "reader" eyeglasses.

The first day we went to church in the morning and then saw 50 people that afternoon. Overwhelmed by the numbers of people and the long lines, we immediately began to work to prioritize, triage and figure out how many people we could realistically serve a day so that we would not end up having people wait all day only to be turned away. We did our very best to work with compassion and efficiency but there were still people we could not get to.

As a nurse and a sort of coordinator for the team, it was my job to help match volunteers with jobs they were suited for and to watch over the general work of the clinic, intervening where there might be problems. Together with other nurse volunteers, including a local nurse who helped with translations when people were not fluent in English (Belizeans speak a mix of English, Spanish, Creole, and some Mayan languages), we checked vitals, weights, blood sugars, occasional hematocrits and lots of urine samples for infection and pregnancy. Our team had access to on-site X-rays, some ultrasound and EKG. The dental clinic also had X-ray and was fully functional to do most extractions and some restorative work. Some of the patients moved between dental and medical and even on to eye checks and hearing tests to get the full benefit of all the services provided.

Modern medicine and cell phones made it possible for our doctors to work with physicians back in the US to assess and offer expertise on cases. One young man, age 15, came in with a bullet lodged in his lower brain. The images were sent to a neurosurgeon stateside and also to a radiologist and a pediatrician. Together they concurred that surgery might do more harm than good and that he should not have it removed because of the risks involved with surgery. When seen, he was 2 weeks out from his injury and walking with minor assistance. The educated opinion of the experts, rendered from far away, were a great help to a family that did not know which way to turn.

The most difficult cases we saw were the ones where we felt our hands were tied by circumstances beyond our control. The breast mass, the severe heart murmur in a younger man, the colon cancer, the "spells" that remained undiagnosed—all caused the team anguish as we conferred, prayed, and tried to find a way forward. In a place where few have insurance and the medical system is cash based, not having money for a procedure simply means that it will not happen. In the end, we tried to give some assistance to the hardest cases we faced, but all were daunting as radiation and chemo and surgery are scarce and mostly unavailable. Extended treatments often require travel abroad, something that involves another set of hurdles, including the necessary paperwork and large amounts of cash.

After a busy week of seeing hundreds of patients, I was left with one predominant emotion: gratitude. Gratitude for what we were able to do, gratitude for the appreciative response of those we reached out to and those we worked with, and gratitude for all that we have here at home. In spite of the difficulties involved, overseas medical missions is productive in that it refocuses us on things that really matter: relationships, compassion, and the unity of all humanity as we occupy one fragile planet together. Yes, we are different but my goodness, we have so much in common. Whatever nation we are from, our bodies work in much the same way and malfunction in similar ways; our passion for helping our loved ones is undiminished by deprivation and scarcity of resources and our desire to be treated with dignity is uniform.

My hope is that we did a world of good in our week in Belize. Realistically, I know that the impact was relatively small. Some would argue that the resources spent in taking so many people was not worth the benefit. However, I would argue the opposite. The seeds of love and care sown will continue to bear fruit for years to come and more than that, our team was changed. We all came back with a bigger vision of our place in the world and our greater responsibility for our neighbors, both here and beyond. --Joy Eastridge
